Mother Lashes Son, 2, to Himself; Both Are Drowned GALESBURG, ILL. — A mother lashed her two-year-old son's wrists to her own and then walked with him into a lake, where both drowned. The victims were Mrs. Juanita Kimble, 40, and her son, William. The bodies were recovered from Lake Story in Municipal park north of here. Coroner E. B. Malstrom said the mother had tied her wrists to her son's wrists with clothesline. Her husband, George E. Kimble, a power company employee, found a note his wife had left at their home. It said she had been ill and depended on him. She had been under the care of a physician.

Admits Killing Sailor in a Fight Manhunt Ends in the Capture of Cook Who Confesses. KEY WEST, FLA. — An intensive highly secret two-week manhunt aboard a U. S. destroyer for the slayer of a 19-year-old sailor ended with a joint announcement by the FBI and the office of naval intelligence of an oral confession by a cook who had been in custody 12 days. In the early morning hours of July 25, Benjamin Leroy Hobbs of N. C. was attacked, bludgeoned and slowly strangled near his bunk on the U. S. S. Strubling. Two days later David Joseph Watson, a Negro cook third class, was placed in naval custody. Joseph E. Thornton, Miami's FBI chief, announced that Watson had made a detailed confession of the crime. Thornton said Watson, whose home is in Norfolk, Va., disclosed that he attempted to assault Hobbs as he slept on the back of the head stroyer, that Hobbs awoke and tried to fight, and that he then struck the young sailor on the back of the head with a wrench and strangled him slowly with a piece of rope from a tarpaulin. Hobbs' death came just five days before he was to have been discharged to his home. He was charged to help his recently widowed mother run their small North Carolina farm. Low flying blimps took pictures of the crew in the positions they maintained on the night of Hobbs' death in an effort to track down the slayer. Watson is being held in the navy brig in Key West without charge, Thornton said, pending a decision by the navy on whether to release him to civilian authorities.

War Book Discloses Nazi Plans for Middle East MOSCOW. — The Germans built a strong military and political force to penetrate the Middle East, but never put it into action, a Soviet war book by Vitaly Zaborin has disclosed. Equipped with its own tanks, planes, cavalry, armored cars and artillery, the corps included German-trained Arabs and Foreign Legionnaires. According to the book, the Germans intended to use this special force to fight the British 10th army in Iran. Immediately preceding and during the projected campaign, an accompanying political task force was slated to instigate political unrest, the book declares.

Slayer Attacks Truist, Then Tries to Kill Self OROVILLE, CALIF. — Sheriff W. H. Forward disclosed recently that Albert Jones, 14-year-old confessed murderer, tried to strangle a jail trustee and then attempted suicide in his county jail cell.

A deputy sheriff found the youth hanging from a noose crudely made from strips of a blanket and tied to the heavy wire screen of his cell window. He had been hanging "about five minutes," authorities said.

A few hours earlier, they said, he attacked Tony Gonzalez, a trustee, who had been painting the doors on the inside of the youth's cell.
